

EMPOWERING YOUNG PEOPLE AFFECTED BY VIOLENCE TO KEEP THEMSELVES AND OTHERS SAFE

At StreetDoctors we are determined to meet the needs of young people affected by violence. This is even more urgent as these are the same young people who, as a result of the pandemic, are now further at risk because of disruption to their education, rising unemployment and the closing down of opportunities.

DELIVERY OPTIONS

We have created three options to suit the different circumstances and restrictions of the pandemic, along with new safeguarding measures and an updated Partner Toolkit to help you support young people before, during and after the session:

1. Digital Delivery

All participants are remote

Available for bleeding and knocked out sessions via Zoom and Microsoft Teams

A digital version of our award-winning 'What to do if someone is bleeding' and 'What to do when someone is knocked out' sessions means young people can continue to learn life-saving first aid skills to keep themselves and others safe during the pandemic. Sessions are delivered by our volunteers as a live webinar, straight to young people's personal devices, with interactive features to replicate the experience and impact of a face to face session. Feedback from delivery partners and young people who have attended digital sessions has been universally positive, and on a par with the responses we receive at standard sessions. Maximum 15 young people in 1 session.

2. Remote Delivery to a Face to Face Group

Trainer only is remote

Available for bleeding and knocked out sessions

The same live online session as 'Option 1', delivered by our volunteers to a socially distanced group of young people at a delivery partner's premises. Maximum 30 young people in 1 session.

3. Socially Distanced Face to Face Delivery

All participants are present (from June 2021)

Available by request for bleeding and knocked out sessions

A socially distanced version of our standard sessions, which can be delivered by our volunteers face to face, at a delivery partner's premises.
